Craftsmanship, designed for you

Fine Craftsmanship

Paul Marchbank is based in Keyworth, Nottinghamshire and has been designing and making fine furniture for over ten years. Originally trained as a cabinet maker, he has established his own workshop and now works on bespoke projects that combine materials, technology and architectural joinery. From complete kitchen projects, home offices, bathrooms and built in furniture you can rely on delivery of a project with fanatical attention to detail.

Make your dream a reality

Paul Marchbank will personally work with you to produce designs and drawings that capture your ideas. As the project develops you will have an opportunity to select finishes, fittings and colours to bring the project alive. Whether you have seen something in a showroom or been browsing magazines to choose your look and style, Paul Marchbank can make it a reality.

Materials of quality

From the start Paul Marchbank will work with you to choose the woods, finishes and fittings that will bring your project to life. Wood can be varnished or colour-finished to a high quality. All work is done by skilled local sprayers and finishers to ensure that your furniture will last and continue to look beautiful long into the future.

Functional and beautiful

Whatever you want in terms of look and functionality can be achieved. A range of high quality materials are combined to create beautiful functional pieces for your home. Everything is measured and crafted to fit into your space to give you exactly what you want for your home.

Elegance and durability

Years of experience allows Paul Marchbank to select materials that will enhance the beauty of your home. From woods to granites, from tiles to taps. You will be impressed by the attention to detail that is brought to your project. Every piece is made to last using the best quality fittings, even down to the screws. Complex shapes, fine veneering, turned parts are all finished and installed to the highest standards.

Fitting into your home

While your project is taking shape Paul Marchbank can advise about fitting windows and changing your lighting. A Velux fitting can transform and lift the whole feeling of a room.

Paul Marchbank will make best use of the space to enhance your project. Only a bespoke project will let you fit new features into unusual places.

Inside, Paul Marchbank will fit-out cupboards, draws and spaces exactly as you want. Imagine being able to have a space for everything, fitting exactly how you want.

Transform your home

Paul Marchbank has a workshop capable of producing all large architectural joinery, whether you want a replacement door to match others in your home, a new window frame or a complete set of stairs. As with all work, you get a full service from design, manufacture and fitting.

Stairs and architectural joinery

Paul Marchbank makes bespoke architectural joinery and can work with your building team to provide unique, high quality woodwork.

Stairs can be made to fit any space and include curved working in bannisters. All components are locally made, with spindles being hand made by local wood turning specialists.

Window frames can be made to replace and match existing fittings. Any style of window can be made, including sash frames. High quality wood with full rotproofing will ensure that your replacement frames will last.

Hardwood and softwood doors can be made to match any existing patterns in your home to ensure that new work blends into old. This includes making specialised mouldings and matching features on raised panels.

Complete sets of French doors and bespoke window panels can be made for new building work. Any type of detail can be included in such commissioned work. This is especially useful when extension work is being carried out and it is important for new windows to match existing frames. All new windows meet modern building regulations and are fitted with modern security locking systems.

Full project management from start to finish

Paul Marchbank will work with you from start to finish to ensure that everything goes according to plan. Many projects will involve some building work, electrical work or plumbing and so a network of recommended tradesmen is available to help.

Structural engineer and building partners

Some projects demand close integration with other building alterations. Paul Marchbank can recommend and bring in an established network of engineers and building partners to complete your project.

Hand made in local workshops

Your furniture is all hand made from timbers purchased from local merchants. You can select from a huge range of woods to get exactly the right effect. Unusual and specialised woods are always available including pippy oaks, sycamore and ash.

Mirrors and curtains

Paul Marchbank specialises in using wall-sized mirrors, set in frames and curtains, to bring space and light into your home. In bathrooms and bedrooms a wide range of mirror effects can be incorporated.

Tiling and decoration.

We can recommend and organise tiling and decorating work as part of managing your project. Working closely with other tradesmen, Paul Marchbank can ensure that all work is completed on schedule.

Integrating your technology

Paul Marchbank is experienced at integrating technology into your home. AV installation to ensure networking, wiring and computer integration is no problem. Fitting integral ovens, washers and freezers is part of the bespoke service.

Plumbing and fittings

Heating and plumbing work are integral to most projects and Paul Marchbank can introduce and organise recommended tradesmen.
